

Taylor Parker

Cornerstone

Dr. G

Monday, April 28, 2014

Campus Engagement: Workshop

Today I attended a Portfolio workshop through our Cornerstone teacher assistant, Katie. This workshop was based on helping us with our portfolio for our final project in Cornerstone. I learned a lot about how to use the Weebly website.

Without this workshop, I would have been very confused on how to use the online resource. Instead, this workshop helped me easily create my website for my portfolio. She taught us to add different pages to your website while also teaching us how to be creative and design a really cool website. I stayed the whole time which allowed me to get started on my website and if I had any questions, to ask Katie or Dr. Gruenwald for help.

I finish my opening page and my second page during class, I did not get to adding all different papers, projects and speeches. I created my first page with a main theme of blossoming and growing throughout the year. With my first page I had a main theme of sunflowers because of my blooming idea. I am going to stick with this idea throughout my whole portfolio. I also learned how to add pictures to my portfolio to make it more innovative.

I can relate this back to class because we are making portfolios for our final project. This workshop really helped me learned how to create a website and how to do it efficiently.